

2008 Seminar Programme

Coaching for Success - Developing Your Most Valuable Asset

Coaching is widely recognised as a core skill required by all successful managers. There are a number of methodologies available, this seminar will work through a simple and effective model taking a practical approach to develop the delegate skills along the way.

Delegates at previous events have asked specifically for a workshop on coaching to be provided in order that they might try out 'in laboratory conditions' coaching techniques without risk of getting it wrong with their team. If you have recently been promoted to a position with management of people responsibility, or have been doing it for a while and need that all important refresher, this course is for you.

- Principles of coaching
- Coaching styles and our options
- Practical run through of the coaching model enabling delegates to try out the techniques
- Action plans for delegates - how we can improve our performance
